Dream, Determination, and Compassion Behind the Establishment of RAAH To cure Foundation Trust

Two years ago, what was once just a dream in the hearts of a group of dedicated doctors, gradually transformed into a living reality. The vision was simple yet powerful – to bring about a meaningful change in society, particularly in the fields of healthcare, social welfare, and education. Today, as we look back on our journey, it is not merely a story of setting up an organization, but rather a testimony of emotions, determination, and compassion that bound us together and gave life to our dream.

The Dream

Every remarkable initiative begins with a dream. For us, it was the dream of giving back to society – a society that trusted us as doctors, as healers, and as humans. While serving patients in hospitals, we witnessed firsthand the struggles of underprivileged communities: the lack of proper medical facilities, the absence of awareness regarding health, and the socio-economic hurdles that restricted them from leading a dignified life.

It was this dream – to reach out to those who could not reach us, to extend a healing hand beyond the walls of hospitals, and to create opportunities where there were none – that became the foundation of RCF Trust.

The Determination

Dreams alone are not enough unless supported by relentless determination. From the very beginning, we knew that the road ahead would be filled with challenges – financial constraints, limited resources, lack of infrastructure, and the enormous responsibility of gaining people's trust. Yet, we stood together as a team, driven by a shared belief in our mission.

Every obstacle only strengthened our will. Meetings late at night after hospital shifts, planning sessions in modest rooms, and endless discussions about strategies were the stepping stones of our journey. We learned to transform limitations into possibilities and doubts into confidence. Our determination was not just to establish an NGO, but to build an institution that would stand for hope, service, and humanity for generations to come.

The Compassion

At the heart of our journey lies compassion – the very essence of why this NGO exists. Compassion has been our guiding principle, shaping every decision and every initiative. Whether it was organizing free medical camps for the poor, distributing medicines to the needy, raising awareness about hygiene and education, or extending help during emergencies, compassion was the soul of our efforts.

It is compassion that allowed us to see every patient not just as a case, but as a human being with emotions, fears, and dreams. It is compassion that inspired us to go beyond our professional duty and dedicate our time, energy, and resources to social service.

Report on the Founding Meeting of RCF TRUST (Designation Distribution & Fund Collection for Documentation)

Two years ago, a group of doctors with a shared dream of bringing positive change in society came together to establish an NGO. The mission was clear – to dedicate our knowledge, time, and resources towards healthcare, education, and social welfare. The initial phase of setting up the NGO was marked by determination, teamwork, and collective responsibility. Among the most significant milestones in this journey was the founding meeting, where important decisions regarding designation distribution and fund collection for documentation and other expenses were made.

Designation Distribution

Understanding that an NGO requires organized leadership and defined responsibilities, the trustees agreed upon the following designation structure:

President – (Dr Rifaat Ali) to lead the organization, represent it officially, and guide its vision.

Vice President – (Dr Mohammad Hamid) to assist the President and oversee activities in their absence.

General Secretary – (Dr Mohammad Arif) to handle administrative responsibilities and communication.

Joint Secretary – (Mohammad Salman) to support the General Secretary and manage specific tasks.

Treasurer – (Dr Adnan Shameem) to manage financial affairs, including collection and disbursement of funds.

Spoke Person – (Dr Mohd Aquib) to actively participate in planning, decision-making, and execution of projects.

This distribution of designations was done keeping in mind the strengths, expertise, and interests of each member, ensuring that every individual played a meaningful role in shaping the NGO.

Fund Collection for Documentation & Expenses

Once the designations were finalized, attention turned to the most immediate requirement – funds for the registration and documentation process. It was agreed that the expenses would be shared equally among trustees to reflect unity and equal ownership of the NGO.

The collected funds were used for:

- Registration Fees for NGO documentation.
- Legal and Administrative Costs related to drafting and filing.
- Initial Stationery, Communication & Setup Expenses for smooth functioning.

The collective contribution was not just financial support, but also a symbol of shared responsibility and trust. Each trustee willingly came forward, reflecting their dedication and personal commitment to the cause.

Significance of the Meeting

This meeting was not just about assigning designations and pooling money; it was the foundation stone of our NGO. It symbolized:

- Unity of Purpose – all members stood together for a common cause.
- Transparency – every decision was taken openly with equal participation.
- Commitment – the willingness to contribute time, effort, and finances for the dream.
