Eid Kits Distribution

Ramadan, is a month of spiritual reflection, fasting, and worship. We say "Ramadan Kareem" a common greeting, meaning "May you be generous during Ramadan."

Following that RCF Trust believe in making a real difference in someone's life in the holy month of Ramadan.

To achieve this noble cause eid kits were distributed in this great month by the RCF Trust among poor, marginalized and needy muslims brothers and sisters, so they can celebrate their eid with full of joy and happiness.

In these kits there were raw food material including; rice, pulse, salt, spices, sugar, oil, dates, sewaiyan, dry fruits etc.

This event was successfully completed between 25-31 March 2024.

Independence Day 2024 – Event Report

Celebrate India's 78th Independence Day by fostering patriotism, community unity, and delivering tangible benefits through education, healthcare, and social welfare programs.

The event began at 8:00 AM with a formal flag hoisting.

The national anthem "Jana Gana Mana" was sung, and a brief patriotic speech highlighted the relevance of freedom and the NGO's commitment to societal upliftment.

The Independence Day 2024 celebration was a resounding success. Blending cultural pride, educational support, healthcare services, and social welfare, the event embodied the true spirit of freedom and community service. Attendees were united in celebration and received meaningful support—an encouraging marker for future programming.

Meeting Report-

Interaction Between Trustees and Experts

Date: 7th September 2024

Organised by: Raah to Cure Foundation Trust

Raah to Cure Foundation Trust, an NGO actively working in the fields of education, healthcare, and social welfare, organised a significant meeting on 7th September 2024. The purpose of the meeting was to bring together the trustees of the organisation and various domain experts associated with the NGO to discuss the overall functioning, review ongoing initiatives, and explore strategies for sustainable growth.

The session witnessed valuable insights from experienced professionals in the fields of public health, education reform, and social development. Discussions revolved around strengthening grassroots implementation, enhancing community outreach, improving the efficiency of ongoing programs, and expanding partnerships with like-minded institutions.

Trustees appreciated the efforts and suggestions shared by the experts and expressed commitment towards implementing innovative approaches to serve underprivileged communities more effectively. The meeting concluded with a collective resolve to work more strategically and collaboratively for the holistic development of society.

Empowering students: through sponsoring HAH Cricket Tournament 2024

At Raah to Cure Foundation Trust, we believe that sports play a vital role in shaping the future of young minds. They teach teamwork, perseverance, and leadership, all while fostering a sense of community.

Recently, we had the privilege of sponsoring an exciting sports event (HAH Cricket Tournament 2204) at Jamia Hamdard, where we not only supported the players through sponsorship but also ensured their safety and well-being. As part of our sponsorship, we provided the event with essential first aid kits.

These kits included basic medical supplies such as bandages, antiseptics, ice packs, and other necessary items to deal with minor injuries quickly. In addition to the first aid kits, we also contributed a cash donation to help cover various expenses for the event. By offering financial backing, we aimed to make the sports event accessible to all students, regardless of their financial circumstances.

The event itself was a huge success! Students engaged in friendly yet competitive games that showcased their athleticism, teamwork, and dedication.

At Raah to Cure Foundation Trust, we believe that sports play a vital role in the growth of students both on and off the field. By sponsoring this event, we've helped foster a community that values hard work, safety, and the potential for growth.

Meeting Report – Trustees' Discussion on Free Blanket Distribution

Date: 7th December 2024

Organised by: Raah to Cure Foundation Trust

Raah to Cure Foundation Trust, a committed NGO working across education, healthcare, and social welfare, convened a trustees' meeting in December 2024. The key agenda of the meeting was to plan the Free Blanket Distribution Drive for the underprivileged during the winter season and to discuss strategies for the overall growth and expansion of the organisation. The trustees deliberated on the logistics, target areas, and number of beneficiaries for the upcoming distribution program. Emphasis was placed on reaching the most vulnerable sections of society, particularly those living in slums, footpaths, and shelters.

In addition to the distribution plan, the meeting also addressed the need for strengthening outreach, building partnerships, increasing volunteer engagement, and improving the visibility of the NGO's work.

The meeting concluded with a strong commitment by all trustees to continue serving the community with compassion and to take steps toward long-term impact and sustainable development.

Free Blanket distribution:

A Heartfelt Gesture for Those in Need

December 2024, as the harsh winter winds gripped the streets, Raah To Cure Foundation Trust, which has been serving communities for the past few years, took action to help those suffering the most. It organized a Free Blanket Distribution Event for the homeless and street dwellers, many of whom faced freezing temperatures with nothing to shield them from the cold.

The idea for the event stemmed from the devastating reality that many of our fellow human beings, without a home to call their own, are forced to endure freezing temperatures every night.

While most of us can take refuge in warm homes, the homeless are exposed to the elements, often struggling with inadequate clothing or shelter. This severe weather is not only a physical challenge, but a mental and emotional burden.

The way to reach to those who in need most Recognizing the need for immediate relief, Raah To Cure Foundation Trust mobilized its resources and reached out to generous donors, volunteers, and partners to ensure that the event would be a success. It managed to collect a substantial number of high-quality blankets, enough to distribute to hundreds of people. Our volunteers were divided into groups, each assigned to a specific area known for its large population of homeless individuals.

As the teams moved through the streets, they encountered people huddled in makeshift shelters, under bridges, and on street corners, each trying to find warmth amidst the relentless cold. Our volunteers, equipped with hundreds of blankets, set out in search of those most in need. With the city asleep, they carefully made their way through alleys, under bridges, and along busy streets, reaching out to individuals who were huddled on the cold pavement, trying to stay warm.

The way to distribute The distribution began late at night, when the streets were quiet, and many were already seeking shelter from the bitter cold. It was done in 3 phases.

In the first phase, we focused on the areas with the highest concentration of homeless individuals. Our volunteers found people who had no shelter, some wrapped in torn clothing, others with nothing but thin sheets to cover them. Each blanket given was met with immense gratitude, with many recipients expressing their relief and thanks, their faces brightening at the promise of warmth.

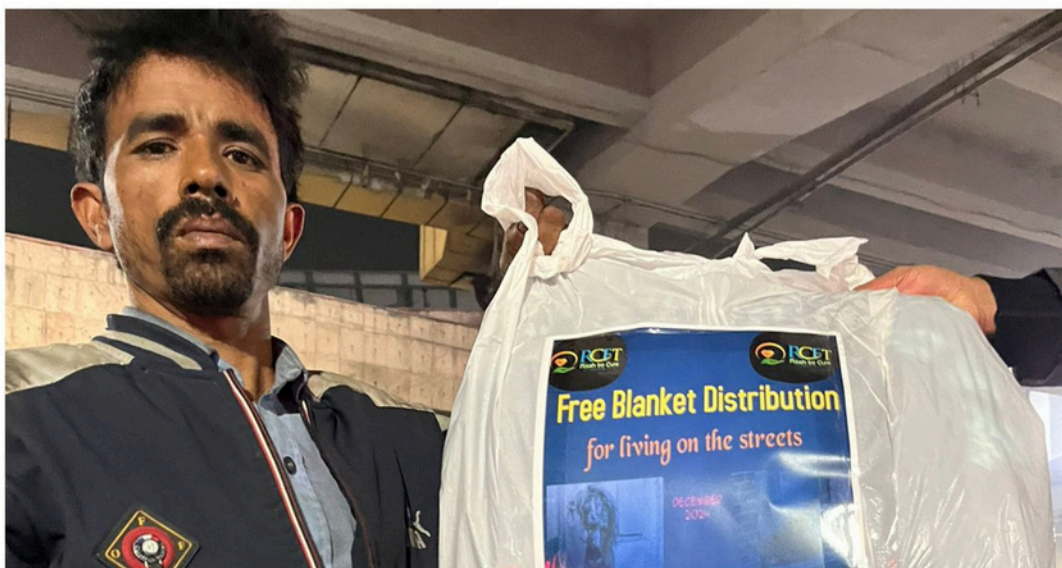

The second phase took place in the deep of the night, as temperatures continued to drop. Our teams moved farther into quieter parts of the city, tracking down those who were often overlooked. One volunteer recalled an elderly woman curled up on a park bench, her body shaking from the cold. The blanket she received wasn't just a shield from the chill—it was a gesture of compassion, a reminder that she was seen and cared for.

The final phase took place for the same.

Exhausted but determined, our volunteers continued their mission, reaching out to those who remained in need. It was during this phase that one volunteer encountered a young man who had been living on the streets for several months. With tears in his eyes, he thanked the team for their kindness, telling them, “This is the first time I’ve felt someone cares enough to help.”

Cure stories throughout the event

By the end of the event, hundreds of blankets had been distributed, offering a small yet vital respite from the freezing cold. While the event brought much-needed warmth, it also reinforced the deeper need for long-term solutions to address As the blankets were handed out, the reactions were profound. Many of the recipients had tears in their eyes as they gratefully accepted the warmth and comfort these blankets provided. For some, it was a small gesture, but for others, it meant the difference between survival and suffering. One elderly man, shivering and hunched under a thin layer of clothing, expressed his thanks, saying, “I’ve never had something so warm, something that makes me feel like I’m not invisible.” His words struck a deep chord with every volunteer present. In the midst of the event, there was a special moment that stood out. A young woman, who had been living on the streets for over a year, approached one of our volunteers. She shared her story of hardships and isolation, and as she received her blanket, she said, “This isn’t just warmth. This is someone showing me they care. That means more than anything right now.” One elderly man, wrapped in a thin jacket, thanked us with tears in his eyes, saying, “This is the first warmth I’ve felt in weeks.” It was a simple gesture, but to those who received it, it meant the world. And that was all about a successful event that can be described through “Covering the Cold, With Care and Compassion”

Healing Together: Free Medical Camp from Raah To Cure Foundation Trust

Raah To Cure Foundation Trust, a dedicated NGO committed to social welfare, education, and healthcare, organized a free medical camp to bridge the gap in access to quality medical services. That was held at a centrally located community center at a public park in tuglakabad extension to ensure accessibility, the camp attracted a large number of attendees seeking medical attention and advice.

The camp offered a range of services, including:

1. Free Blood Pressure and Blood Sugar Tests:
 - By providing these tests at no cost, the camp enabled individuals to become aware of their health status and seek timely interventions.
2. Free Medical Consultations:
 - by a team comprising a dermatologist and two general medicine consultants provided personalized consultations. The focus on skin diseases addressed common yet often neglected conditions prevalent in the community, while general medical consultations covered a broad spectrum of health concerns.
3. Free Medication Distribution:
 - Patients diagnosed with specific conditions received free medications, ensuring that treatment commenced immediately without financial burden.

The success of this medical camp was made possible by the unwavering dedication and hard work of numerous individuals and team members so we specifically mention a heartfelt gratitude goes to the dermatologist and the two general medicine consultants who gave their time and expertise. Their compassionate care and professional advice were instrumental in addressing the health concerns of many attendees.

"And we also appreciate the volunteer's efforts because the event would not have been possible without the selfless contributions of volunteers who managed logistics, coordinated patient flow, and provided support services. Their enthusiasm and commitment ensured the camp ran smoothly and efficiently."

And lastly appreciation is extended to local community members and community leaders who helped in mobilizing residents and facilitating the event. Their collaboration was key to reaching a broader segment of the population.
